Message from Our Chairman & Chief Executive Officer

Without a doubt, the last half of 2020 and the first of 2021 harbored many challenges. From the nationwide calls for justice that followed the senseless death of George Floyd, to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic eroding our nation's physical and mental wellbeing, to economic hardships exacerbated by a workforce in crisis, to the shocking riot at the nation's capital, there were many moments that seemed dire.

Yet, as in all times of hardship, we find hope. We find hope in the dedication of essential workers who remained vigilant in their darkest hours; we find hope in the commitment of principled protesters who fight for social justice no matter the cost; we find hope in the stalwart philanthropists whose generosity fuels progress and innovation; and we find hope in the remarkable resilience of our children – our students – who look to us to forge a path to brighter tomorrows.

In the spirit of unity, hope, and determination, this report celebrates the citizens, organizations, and philanthropists who stepped forward in our fiscal year 2021, July 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021, to help thousands of local children and families through support of the Fund for the School District of Philadelphia.

The work can be hard and the road can feel long, but the destination is clear... building brighter, more equitable futures for the hundreds of thousands of children and families who count on Philadelphia public schools.

At The Fund, we took stock of our own work during this time, and developed a growth plan which calls upon us to step up even more by launching a comprehensive campaign to support a more equitable education for our students. We look forward to sharing it with you over the next year.

Despite the obstacles in your own path, thank you for standing with us and forging ahead.

Featured Giving Story: GlaxoSmithKline

In FY21, we were delighted to be among the first recipients for global healthcare company GlaxoSmithKline's (GSK) generous grants to support STEM Equity in Philadelphia. GSK pledged to support at least $1 million in grant funds each year for ten years to nonprofits working to address inequity in STEM education and careers.

As a result of their remarkable investment, in fiscal year 2021 we were able to offer a specialized resource called Mystery Science, a K-5 enrichment science curriculum, to all elementary schools in the School District of Philadelphia. Nearly 350 teachers took advantage of the opportunity to attend specialized training on this resource in order to enhance the virtual classroom experience for their students.

We were also able to develop Mini-Grants for Equitable Access to STEM Opportunities, a highly competitive opportunity for K-12 public school teachers to be awarded up to $2,500 dollars to provide innovative STEM learning experiences to students year-round. 1,500 Black, LatinX, and female students received specialized programming to introduce them to careers in STEM.

BY THE NUMBERS

$671,000 in grant dollars; 338 teachers trained; 16,440 students benefited; 16 mini-grants awarded to date; 1,500 students received special STEM opportunities

Featured Giving Story:

Read To Succeed Summer Program

Thanks to the dedication of our family of supporters, The Read to Succeed Summer Program (R2S), was able to provide comprehensive virtual literacy programming to hundreds of public school students in the summer of 2020, which expanded to both virtual and in-person instruction in the summer of 2021.

Founded by State Senator Vincent Hughes, Read to Succeed is a comprehensive and intentional reading program that gives pre-K through 3rd grade students year-round access to reading materials and instruction. Their work is highly effective in preventing “summer slide” – the sharp regression in reading skills and comprehension – among its participants.

In fiscal year 2021, the 4-week program enrolled 212 students who logged an impressive 90% average daily attendance rate. Participating students retained and advanced their reading abilities throughout the year.

We are deeply grateful to the William Penn Foundation, The Tobias Harris Charitable Gift Fund, and David Haas and the Philadelphia Foundation for their overwhelming support of the program. And, we are thankful for the partnership of State Senators Hughes, Haywood, and Street.

BY THE NUMBERS

$360,725 total donations; 109 donors made 127 gifts

Featured Giving Story:

Wawa Recognizes Community Heroes

In March of 2021, Wawa and the Fund for the School District of Philadelphia teamed up to provide appreciation kits to more than 4,000 essential District employees who worked in school buildings during the COVID-19 shut down. This included food service employees who served meals to support students and families in need while schools were closed; as well as security, maintenance, payroll, and technology employees.

As a company dedicated to serving the community with essential services as well, Wawa donated appreciation kits which included a Wawa gift card as well as coupons for free hoagies, donuts, coffee, and other beverages. They also supplied lunch to all employees working in Northeast High School on the day of the gift's announcement.

BY THE NUMBERS

$45,000 in value; 4,335 District employees recognized

Featured Giving Story:

Comcast NBCUniversal Foundation

Comcast NBCUniversal Foundation gave a generous $1.5 million grant to help The Fund and the School District of Philadelphia ensure our District and its students would continue to thrive during the pandemic. Their support allowed for a district-wide Equity audit, the development of an Equity framework, and the creation of an Equity Fellowship. It supported the consultation needed to help the District develop the “Advancing Education Safety Plan” for the return to school in the fall of 2020 and bridge gaps in students’ and families’ access to essential educational resources during the ongoing pandemic.

“ Since the beginning of the pandemic, Comcast saw the need to be part of major solutions in its hometown, and these solutions require everyone working together – the public, private and philanthropic sectors.

Through our commitment to The Fund for the School District of Philadelphia, we continue to make investments to create a more equitable playing field for our students and our communities. ”

—Dalila Wilson-Scott, President of the Comcast NBCUniversal Foundation

Special Events: Dress Down Day Philly

Dress Down Day for Philly Public Schools FY21 was a smashing success, thanks to our partnership with Goldenberg Group and the individuals and organizations who joyfully participated and contributed! We offer special appreciation to companies that made substantial commitments to Dress Down Day: including M&T Bank, Santander, Inolex, Inc., Kaplin Stewart Attorneys at Law, and others. These organizations' commitments serve as an inspiration to all Philadelphia businesses! Each shirt sold raised $20 for a school of the buyer's choice.

$76,082 dollars raised; 205 schools benefitted

Special Events: Lil Dicky's Dollar Party

We were delighted to be the beneficiary of a unique and fun streaming event on October 30th, Lil Dicky's Dollar Party, featuring Lil Dicky and friends Michael Rubin, Abbi Jacobson, Matisse Thybulle, Black Thought and others. With their support and enthusiasm and the vital participation of our community members, we received thousands of dollars to help students and families in the School District of Philadelphia!

New Donor Spotlight

Sunny Ho and Dunkin' Joy in Childhood Foundation

The Dunkin' Joy in Childhood Foundation awarded $200,000 to The Fund for the School District of Philadelphia in FY21 to support their new Meaningful Meals program – aimed at providing Philadelphia families in low-income neighborhoods with healthy food. Through the program, families picked up 20-40 lb. boxes filled with fresh fruits, vegetables, meats, and dairy products, including nutritional information and healthy family recipes.

In addition to The Fund and the Dunkin' Joy in Childhood Foundation, Meaningful Meals is made possible by Eat Right Philly and the Share Food Program as a participant in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers to Families Food Boxes Program.

Dunkin' Joy in Childhood Foundation's generous giving was catalyzed by Philadelphia-area Dunkin' franchise owner Sonny Ho. Growing up in Philadelphia, Ho attended Parkway High School and Temple University. His support continues to give back to the School District that once gave him so much, and to the communities that have supported his businesses throughout the last 30 years. We love it when our Philly Alumni give back!

Sonny Ho behind the counter of the Dunkin' Donuts at Erie and Torresdale avenues in 1992. He began working for the company at that location as a high school student in the 1980s and is now CEO of the company that owns 43 Dunkin's in the city. Among them: Erie-Torresdale.

Bimbo Bakeries

As international leaders in the baking industry, Bimbo Bakeries are committed to taking an active role in caring for their people and strengthening their communities. In June of 2021, we were thrilled to welcome Bimbo Bakeries into our family of supporters as they made a $75,000 gift to support vital culinary education programs in public schools in the School District of Philadelphia. Their gift helps support and nurture the cultivation of future leaders in the culinary and baking industries in our region.

Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation

In March of 2021, we were delighted to welcome Steve and Marjorie Harvey to our roster of philanthropic champions when they made a $15,000 gift through the Steve and Marjorie Harvey Foundation to support the district's DASH Program. The DASH Program (Destined to Achieve Successful Heights) is a music production partnership and programming opportunity launched in 2017 which aims to help students learn and achieve in the music industry. The Harveys' generous gift provides scholarships for promising students to join the program.

New Donor Spotlight

The GIANT Company

In June of 2021, GIANT food stores made a gift of more than $414,000 to fight food insecurity among students and families in the School District of Philadelphia. Their generous commitment was part of their Feeding Schools initiative, which, all told, raised more than $3.3 million to address the issue of childhood hunger throughout local public school districts in the communities it serves. From Jan 4 through Feb. 28, 2021, customers at GIANT, MARTIN'S and GIANT Heirloom Market stores were invited to round up their grocery purchase to the nearest dollar or convert their CHOICE points into a donation for their local public schools' food programs. The GIANT Company matched the first $1.5 million donated by customers. "Research consistently shows the connection between good nutrition and the ability to learn, and school food programs are critical to ensuring that many children receive regular meals," said Jessica Groves, manager of social impact for The GIANT Company. "Thanks to the generosity of our customers, our Feeding School Kids initiative is helping to build strong, healthy students, in turn strengthening their families and communities."

OF PHILADELPHIA

We identify, coordinate and connect philanthropic resources—through effective public-private partnerships—to leverage investments in local public schools. We target strategic priorities that have a measurable impact on the success of students regardless of zip code, family income or chance.

The Fund for the School District of Philadelphia is an independent 501(c)3 not for profit organization that serves as a fiscal intermediary between the private sector and the Philadelphia public education system. We are the only philanthropic organization that works directly with school leadership to align the investments of partners—private foundations, corporations and businesses, community organizations and individual donors—with the strategies that will impact the success of students attending our neighborhood public schools.
